

A wide-angle photograph of a street lined with historic brick buildings. The street is paved with cobblestones and leads towards a distant horizon under a cloudy sky. On the left, a building has a green awning with the word 'BUCKHORN' visible. On the right, a building has a blue awning with the words 'PUTAH CREEK CAFE' visible. The overall atmosphere is that of a quiet, historic town square.

JD

John W. Donlevy, Jr.

“In the business of where people live”